

Guide to Types of Rental Housing

There are various types of housing. This brochure is made to help you find housing that meets your preference and conditions for your life in Japan.

- This brochure explains general matters in a most simple way.
- Rental housing is divided into two categories in the explanation of this brochure: private housing and public /public corporation housing.
- A shared house and elderly rental housing with supportive services are introduced in the following columns.
- For further details, please contact Kanagawa Housing Support Center for Foreign Residents (See p.8 for its phone number and address).

1. What you do to look for rental housing

① Decide your budget range for the rent.

Generally speaking, a rent should be less than a third of your monthly income. In addition to the rent, initial expenses equivalent to 3-6 months' rent are necessary: a deposit, key money, the rent for the next month, common service fee and commission fee to the real estate agent.

② Choose an area you want to live in with considering for convenience to commute or a school district of your children.

③ After choosing an area, select a type of rental housing among the categories of Minkan(private housing), Koteki(public corporation housing) and Koei(public housing).

④ Once you decide your desired area and type of housing, you will start finding rental housing.

* Search via the internet

* Search with the special magazine about rental apartment houses

* Contact a real estate agent
